Section 1582 - Business Combinations

July 2026

Section 1582 – Business Combinations

Effective Date
Fiscal years beginning on or after January 1, 2011[1]

Identifying a Business Combination / Scope

A business combination is:

- A transaction or event in which an acquirer obtains control of one or more businesses (e.g. acquisition of shares or net assets, mergers, reverse acquisitions).

Section 1582 does not apply to:

- Formation of a joint arrangement.
- A combination involving a business under common control accounted for in accordance with Related Party Transactions, paragraph 3840.44(b).
- Acquisition of an asset or group of assets that is not a business.

Definition of "Control"

- The continuing power to determine an entity's strategic operating, investing and financing policies without the co-operation of others.
- Refer to Section 1591, Subsidiaries, for factors to consider in determining if control exists.

Definition of a "Business"

- Integrated set of activities and assets.
- Capable of being conducted and managed to provide a return.
- Returns include dividends and cost savings.

Acquisition Costs

- Cannot be capitalized, must instead be expensed in the period they are incurred.
- Except for costs to issue equity which are recognized in accordance with Section 3610, Capital Transactions, and costs to issue debt which are recognized in accordance with Section 3856, Financial Instruments.

Acquisition Method

A business combination must be accounted for by applying the acquisition method.

Step 1: Identify Acquirer

Section 1591, Subsidiaries, is used to identify the acquirer – the entity that obtains control of the acquiree.

Step 2: Determining the Acquisition Date

The date which the acquirer obtains control of the acquiree.

Step 3: Recognition and Measurement of Assets, Liabilities and Non-Controlling Interests (NCI)

- As of the acquisition date, the acquirer recognizes, separately from goodwill:
  - The identifiable assets acquired;
  - The liabilities assumed; and
  - Any non-controlling interest (NCI) in the acquiree.
- The acquired assets and liabilities are required to be measured at their acquisition-date fair values.
- The acquired NCI in the acquiree is measured at its acquisition-date fair value.
- There are certain exceptions to the recognition and / or measurement principles which cover contingent liabilities, asset retirement obligations, income taxes, employee benefits, indemnification assets, reacquired rights, share-based payment awards, assets held for sale and cash surrender value of a life insurance policy.

Step 4: Recognition and Measurement of Goodwill or a Bargain Purchase

- As of the acquisition date, the acquirer recognizes goodwill as the excess between:
  - The aggregate of the consideration transferred, any NCI in the acquiree and in a business combination achieved in stages, the acquisition-date fair value of the acquirer's previously held equity interest in the acquiree; and
  - The identifiable net assets acquired.
- Goodwill can be grossed up to include the amounts attributable to NCI.
- A gain from a bargain purchase is immediately recognized in net income.
- The consideration transferred in a business combination (including any contingent consideration) is measured at fair value.

Additional Guidance for Applying the Acquisition Method

Step Acquisition

- An acquirer sometimes obtains control of an acquiree in which it held an equity interest immediately before the acquisition-date. This is known as a business combination achieved in stages or as a step acquisition.
- The acquirer remeasures its previously held equity interest in the acquiree at its acquisition-date fair value. Any resulting gain / loss is recognized in net income.

Business Combination Without Transfer of Consideration

- The acquisition method of accounting for a business combination also applies if no consideration is transferred.
- Such circumstances include:
  - The acquiree repurchases a sufficient number of its own shares for an existing investor (the acquirer) to obtain control.
  - Minority veto rights lapse that previously kept the acquirer from controlling an acquiree in which the acquirer held the majority voting rights.
  - The acquirer and the acquiree agree to combine their businesses by contract alone.

Subsequent Measurement and Accounting

- In general, after the date of a business combination an acquirer measures and accounts for assets acquired, liabilities assumed or incurred and equity instruments issued in accordance with the applicable Sections of ASPE.
- However, Section 1582 includes accounting requirements for reacquired rights, contingent liabilities, indemnification assets and contingent consideration.
